

November 2015 Monthly traffic update

6.3%

Auckland Airport's 707,047 international passengers (excluding transits) in November 2015 grew by 6.3% on November 2014. All regions experienced passenger growth, with the majority coming from the Tasman and Asian routes (both up 19,000 passengers). Tasman growth was driven by additional Melbourne and Sydney capacity from Qantas and Air New Zealand. Asian growth was due to strong passenger load factors overall plus increased capacity from China Eastern.

24.8%

Cairns Airport's total passenger movements increased by 8.4% in November 2015 compared with November 2014. International passengers were up by 24.8%, transit passengers up by 2.0% and domestic passengers up by 6.6%. International growth was driven by strong passenger load factors, and new capacity from Silk Air's Singapore services (2,700 seats). Jetstar's new Bali services (4,600 seats), also contributed to this growth, despite cancellations in early November due to lingering volcanic ash cloud in Lombok, Indonesia.

46.5%

Queenstown Airport's international passenger numbers grew by 46.5% in November 2015 compared to November 2014 due to strong growth on the Sydney and Melbourne routes. Domestic passengers were up by 15.4% on the previous period, with high passenger loadings maintained as capacity increased thanks in part to Queenstown Marathon and North Island concert travel.

33.8%

Arrivals of overseas visitors through Auckland Airport were up by 8.5% on November 2015 compared to November 2014, with holiday arrivals up by 13.1% over the same period. This growth was dominated by arrivals from China (up 33.8%), Japan (up 14.5%) and Korea (up 19.3%) - bolstered by increases in direct air capacity. Visitor arrivals from India also increased (up 28.5%), as we continue to leverage our joint venture partnership with Tourism New Zealand and Thai Airways to drive high-value travel from this market.
