

January 2016 Monthly traffic update

9.3%

In January 2016, Auckland Airport's 893,314 international passengers (excluding transit passengers) were the highest ever for a single month, more than 43,000 higher than the previous record set in December 2015, and 9.3% higher than in January 2015. The January 2016 result was driven by higher visitor arrivals over summer led by a 9.8% capacity expansion across international routes.

47.3%

Visitor arrivals from China were up 47.3% in January 2016. This growth was driven by the five direct services every day between China and Auckland, including from Beijing on Air China and from Shanghai on China Eastern Airlines. China Eastern's daily services are up from an average of five services per week in January 2015. Auckland Airport had six charter services in January 2016, two from Shanghai operated by China Eastern in the lead up to the Chinese New Year holiday, and four from Seoul on operated by Korean Air – which were in addition to Korean Air's daily scheduled B747 service.

32,940

A new daily passenger record was achieved on Sunday 10 January 2016 with 32,940 international passengers travelling through the international terminal. In January 2016, Auckland Airport's international passengers averaged 28,800 per day, an average increase of 2,400 per day on January 2015.

12.2%

United States of America visitor arrivals were up 12.2% in January 2016. This increase follows the commencement of Air New Zealand's five services per week to Houston, which has opened up the East Coast for one-stop travel to New Zealand. Visitor arrivals from the United Kingdom also grew in January 2016 (up 8.2%). New Zealand's summer months are the most popular time for UK holiday visits, with 60% of visitors arriving between December and March.
